Called to Serve... A message from Bishop Malcolm McMahon on Education Sunday

The elusive factor that often characterises our schools is referred to as ethos but this is a term that is difficult to get hold of. It is expressed in the spiritual, moral, social, and cultural threads that run through the whole of education, the subjects that are taught & the way they are delivered, the way school is managed, the behaviour of the staff and children, the quality of the school dinners, the refereeing on the football pitch. The relationship which the teacher has with the individual pupil or student is usually a unique forum in which the young person is guided in discovery of the truth beyond the bare facts of the subject to that which is Truth itself. An awesome responsibility!

The teacher in a Catholic School has a special role because for them the child or student is not just a person to be trained for life but someone who has been created by God to reach a fulfilment which is beyond our imaginings. For a person to take on responsibility for our young people is more than finding a job which is satisfying, it is to become a partner in God's plan for a better world.

There will be a retiring collection today for this service.
Please support the appeal generously.

CHURCHES TOGETHER ECUMENICAL LUNCH - JAN 20TH

Hosted by St Lewis at Newchurch Parish Hall. A big thank you to all those who helped shop, prepare and serve this meal. A special thank you to Sheila Stephenson who has done the bulk of the work so many times. Thanks also to Deacon Derek who spoke about Unity and led the prayers at the end of the meal. It was a very successful occasion and about 60 people attended.

ST LEWIS LIGHT FITTINGS

One or two parishioners of St Lewis have expressed a wish to obtain one of the former fittings as a souvenir. If you would like to do so please speak to Fr Ron or Trevor. No safety check has been undertaken and an indemnity will be requested.
